

NPC Name: Delia Sharpe

Age: 22	Sex & Gender: AFAB, female (she/her), cisgender	Alignment: True Neutral	Wants: the freedom to build her own legitimate business.	Motivation: to build new defences for her workshop (immediate). To help other young ex-raiders (long-term).
Race/Type: Human	Personality Keywords: tenacious, quick, charming, resilient, hopeful	Factions: ex-Raiders, now unaffiliated	Needs: her book of defence and construction blueprints back.	Additional Info: hates Raider leaders but empathises with the youngest members of Raider gangs. Tired of being in hiding. Doesn't remember much about her real family.

Brief Background:

Delia's a runaway who escaped a gang of raiders who kidnapped her as a child. During her time with the Raiders, she was forced to take part in crimes and acts of terror against innocent settlers. Although she eventually managed to escape, she knows their leader is hunting her down. While she's managed to run from her past in one sense, the experience of her past life with the gang still weighs heavily on Delia's mind.

Delia's a skilled self-taught mechanic, lock picker and hacker. She currently lives in an abandoned Red Rocket garage at Mass Pike Tunnel East, where she trades scrap items and offers weapon and armour repair and modification services. She's friendly to newcomers; she can spot raiders instinctively and knows how to avoid them. With the threat of being hunted down on her mind, Delia's main priority is to fortify her new home and find some allies she can rely on in Mass Pike.

Appearance/Style:

Delia is of average height and build. She has auburn hair, which she cropped short so she can disguise herself as a man if necessary. She has a freckled complexion and pale blue eyes. She wears mechanic overalls, with goggles and associated accessories on a tool belt.

Voice Actor Notes:

Delia has a calm and confident voice, with a gentle Boston inflexion. She has a generally friendly demeanour but can be defensive at times.

Residence: Abandoned Red Rocket garage at Mass Pike Tunnel East. Delia has started to make the Red Rocket her own, rebooting an old terminal to use for her personal logs. She's also started collecting new equipment and rewiring the lighting inside the garage. Although she's only got a sleeping bag, she's scavenged a working cooking stove, a fire barrel for warmth and several other useful tools and materials to fix the place up with.
